The twenty-first edition of Prinsjesdag National Foal Auction will take place on Tuesday 17 September at the KNHS centre in Ermelo. As is the custom, a Newsletter is sent to breeders, participants and possible interested parties.

Parcival to EC

The legendary Parcival is back in training and fit in time to travel to the EC in Denmark end of this month. The auction collection of Prinsjesdag National Foal Auction includes an Everdale product out of the full sister of Parcival. At the photograph and video session on 27 July the foal still looked very tender but the selection committee was impressed.

ClipMyHorse

For the first time the Prinsjesdag National Foal Auction is co-operating with ClipMyHorse.tv, a German company that has already broadcast several horse events live on the internet. From CHIO Aachen to the German National Championships in Warendorf, from stallion shows to foal selections, but it also covers foal auctions.

The people behind ClipMyHorse.tv know what it is about in the horse world and will feature the foals as attractively as possible. ClipMyHorse made the video recordings of the foals and will on 17 September take care of the live stream.

Three times Big Star

Although hardly any foals were born this year by living legend Big Star, two will be auctioned at the Prinsjesdag National Foal Auction. In addition, also a Big Star embryo will be offered for sale. Wherever Big Star makes an appearance, the son of Quick Star always steals the show under Nick Skelton with his spectacular jumping manners, carefulness and super attitude. PNFA is therefore very glad about the Big Star products. The foals and the embryo of this world-famous sire are combined with proven mares lines.

Sires at the WC for Young Dressage Horses in Verden

Last week the World Championships for Young Dressage Horses was ridden in Verden. Several sires gave their best in the different dressage classes, in which, amongst others Desperado and Charmeur made their appearance.

Power of Performance

Ten years ago the Association Prinsjesdag National Foal Auction made the definite choice for the selection of products of sport horse breeding. Not at the expense of type, size, conformation or movement, but all these aspects combined together. Because for sport performance not only a functional conformation and good movements are of importance, but also health, character, mentality and other qualities anchored in sport horse families. That means that foals from PNFA come from proven mares lines. Naturally, the sport performance of the sires also plays an important role: this year, for example, three products will be auctioned of the Holsteiner Casall, the stallion which under Rolf-Göran Bengtsson is considered one of the favourites for the oncoming European Championships in Herning. Recently the combination finished second in the Grand Prix of Het Vechtdal during CSI-3* Ommen at Erve Schuttert. The stallion Carambole is also causing sensation in the sport today. In spite of his tender age and relative inexperience, he will be part of the Dutch showjumping team under Willem Greve at the next EC.
